No mundo, não tem boa sorte senão quem tem por boa a que tem. E daqui me vem contentar-me de triste. Mas olhai de que maneira:

Vim aqui ao revés,
Tomando por certa vida
Certa morte,
Com que folgo em que me páis,
Pois minha sorte é servida
De tal sorte.

Ua coisa sabeis que o mal, ainda que às vezes o vejais longe, não há quem o leve com a boca que
o não tache com o bocado.

Ajuda-me a sofrer
Vida tão sem sofrimento
E tão sem vida,
Ver que se enfia, sem há-lo de ter,
Desgosto e contentamento
Sem medida.

Atentai que não são meus confeitos de enforcado
pera os que estão com o laço na garganta, cuidar que o bem e o mal, ainda que sejam diferentes na vida, são conformes na morte; porque vemos

Que não há tão alta sorte,
Nem ventura tão subida
Ou desastrosa,
A quem o assopro da morte
Não sopra o fogo da vida,
E torce em nada

A seu fim todas cousas vão correndo;

Translation note

 "Côté Cour et/ou Côté Jardin" : literally, court (yard) side and/or garden side. The origin is theatrical, the English equivalent being : "prompt side or opposite prompt side" (i.e. stage left or stage right). In contemporary French, the expression tends to be used for everything which indicates a contrast between two ways of seeing things ...

MUTE HISTORY

MUTE HISTORY
(THE HISTORY OF THE SPEECHLESS)
THOSE WHO WERE JUST LIVING THEIR LIVES AND THOSE WHO WERE MANIPULATING
THERE IS A REVOLUTION OF GOOD SENSE (OF SENSING)
AFOOT IN THE WORLD
NEW LIGHTS ARE SHINING
ON THE ANONYMITY OF EVIL
